Headline:
Rain this morning and again overnight.

Today:
Rain and upland snow will slowly clear to the northeast, lingering longest over the hills of Cumbria. Dry for most by the late afternoon, with occasional sunny spells in the south. Breezy initially, but winds soon weakening. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
Further rain moves into all areas during the evening, falling heavily at times and being confined to northern areas by the early hours. Showers will cross southern counties before dawn. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Friday:
A cloudy day on Friday, with a mixture of dry intervals and patchy outbreaks of rain or hill snow. Feeling cooler for most with light winds. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Snow possible in the south on Saturday, dry elsewhere with icy conditions. Dry and initially very cold on Sunday, clouding over later. Cold and dry on Monday, with sunny spells.
